“I MADE A CHOICE”: ENRICO TAGLIETTI IN CANBERRA

Silvia Micheli (BArch Politecnico di Milano; PhD, IUAV, Venice) is Senior Lecturer at the University of Queensland, where she teaches architectural history, theory and design. Silvia has widely published on 20th and 21st century Italian architecture and its cultural exchanges in the international context. She contributed to the volume Italian Imprints (Bloomsbury, 2022); co-edited the book Italy/Australia: Post-modern Architecture in Translation (URO, 2018) and co-authored Storia dell'architettura italiana 1985-2015 (Einaudi 2013). Silvia is now preparing a book on the work of Paolo Portoghesi to be published by Bloomsbury. She is currently coordinating a design research project on the agency of the microscale in the (post)pandemic city, with a focus on domestic production, in collaboration with RMIT, Melbourne, and Hongik University, Seoul.
