

Mid-term Seminar - RIBA Project 2021

The mid-term meeting presents the latest results of the RIBA 2021 research Lost and Found.

The case studies from Calabria, Romania, and Albania will be compared in the broader context of depopulation in inner areas dealing with the impact of such phenomena on the abandonment of urban and architectural heritage.

The purpose of the meeting is also to focus and debate on how history-based models of knowledge can help in defining or suggesting possible strategies to hinder depopulation or, on the contrary, accompany the abandonment of depopulated small towns.
