

Urban (c)interpretations: Urinary movie nights

Language: English, Italian subtitles

ONE DAY ONE DAY

Thursday 6th March, 9.00pm

/ a work by A thing By and Will Media

In Italy, over 500,000 immigrants live without documents and in extreme precarious conditions. Many of them seek refuge and work in the countryside, where they are employed to harvest the food we buy in supermarkets. One Day One Day tells the stories of these people from inside the ghettos and shantytowns scattered across northern Puglia—the only places willing to take them in, yet at the same time, to consume them.

Post-movie discussion

Urinary members in conversation with A thing by,
the filmmakers behind the movie.

Event location:

Il Cinemino Via Seneca, 6

6 euros with 5€ membership required

Sign up at: www.ilcinemino.it

Urban (c)interpretations: Urinary movie nights is a side activity of Urinary the Podcast. This initiative explores urban studies through unconventional, non-academic approaches, creating a space to engage with the community and spark dialogue on urban phenomena.

Organizers: Giulia Oldani, Dafni Riga, Elena Madiari, Mohamed Elgohary, Yioryos Chatzieftymiou

il Cinemino

POLITECNICO
MILANO 1863

DIPARTIMENTO DI ARCHITETTURA
E STUDI URBANI